Kamkus College of Law had organized a guest lecture on "Parliamentary powers to amend the Constitution of India & its Limitations" on 30th March. The Lecture was delivered by Dr. J.D. Upadhyay from St. Peter's Law Academy.

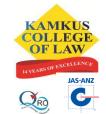

Kamkus College of Law has organized a guest lecture for the students of L.L.B and LL.M.. The event begins with the introduction of Dr. J.D. Upadhyay by Dr, Ambuj Sharma, Principal Kamkus College of Law.

Dr. Upadhyay begins his lecture with the brief introduction of the topic. The procedure of amendment in the constitution is laid down in Part XX (Article 368) of the Constitution of India. This procedure ensures the sanctity of the Constitution of India and keeps a check on arbitrary power of the Parliament of India. However, there is another limitation imposed on the amending power of the constitution of India, which developed during conflicts between the Supreme Court and Parliament, where Parliament wants to exercise discretionary use of power to amend the constitution while the Supreme Court wants to restrict that power. This has led to the laying down of various doctrines or rules in regard to checking the validity/legality of an amendment, the most famous among them is the Basic structure doctrine as laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala. The Supreme Court, in landmark cases like Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala (1973), established the doctrine of "basic structure". This doctrine holds that Parliament cannot amend the Constitution in a way that destroys its fundamental features or basic structure.

The inherent ambiguity of the doctrine, as well as that of the ratio in Kesavananda Bharati, resulted in various challenges both to and under the doctrine before the Supreme Court. The period following Kesavananda Bharati was one where the doctrine has evolved on a case-to-case basis, resulting in a gradual expansion of the doctrine. In Indira Gandhi v. Raj Narain, a Constitutional amendment to regularise Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's election was struck down citing the basic features of democracy, rule of law and equality. From 1975 onwards, the courts have interpreted and expanded the doctrine to include judicial review of decisions by the High Court and Supreme Court under Articles 226 and 32, secularism and federalism, the freedoms under Article 19, judicial independence, and recently, judicial primacy in the judicial appointment process to the basic structure and framework of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court retains the power of judicial review, meaning it can strike down any constitutional amendment that violates the basic structure of the Constitution.

Kamkus College of Law had organized a guest lecture on 17th Nov, 2024 on the topic " Offences against Human Life under Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita". The Lecture was delivered by Prof. (Dr.), Pankaj Tyagi HOD Law Department, M.M.H College, Ghaziabad.

Kamkus College of Law has organized a guest lecture for the students of L.L.B and LL.M.. The event begins with the introduction of Prof. (Dr.) Pankaj Tyagi by Dr, Ambuj Sharma, Principal Kamkus College of Law.

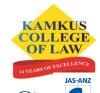

Prof. (Dr.) Tyagi begins his lecture with the brief introduction of Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita. He also explain that with an attempt to revamp the criminal justice system in India, the Parliament recently enacted Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 ("BNS"), Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 ("BNSS") and Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023 ("BSA"). They repeal and replace the Indian Penal Code, 1860. He explain the offences such as culpable homicide, murder, rape and other offences against the body. He also discussed that the offence of attempt to commit suicide has been removed from the BNS. However, a new section has been added which criminalizes the attempt to commit suicide to compel or restrain exercise of lawful power by a public servant.

A sub-category of culpable homicide has been introduced under Section 103 of the BNS, relating to mob-lynching. It criminalizes and provides punishment for murder and/or grievous hurt by "group of five or more persons" based on victim's "race, caste or community, sex, place of birth, language, personal belief or any other similar ground".
